

If the BIO-CALmunity is the best fit for you, one or more of the questions below will describe how you are feeling...

- Do you have quite a bit of personal development knowledge and skills that you've acquired through either life experience, courses, programs, research, or all of the above?
- Do you feel like although you have these skills, your challenge is in transforming that knowledge into life experience?
- Is it your desire or purpose to use your gifts, talents and abilities to make a difference in the world, yet you aren't clear on what you want to do and/or how to get started?
- Are you someone who has started your journey of making an impact, and have run into challenges and/or are ready to take things to the next level? If this is you, you may be looking for new tools/resources/support or a way of using existing tools differently to take your results to an entirely new level of success.

Do you want to change that to knowing what you want and be a strong you!